

The New York Times* now available on NewsScan.com

Montreal, March 9, 2007 — Montreal-based CEDROM-SNi, the Canadian leader in the management and transmission of electronic press reports, has announced a new addition to its list of online newspapers: The New York Times, one of the most widely read and quoted dailies in the world. This addition reinforces the international content available on NewsScan.com, which already boasts such prestigious publications as Le Monde, the Financial Times and the International Herald Tribune, as well as superlative sources like Agence France Presse and Reuters.

As explained by François Aird, President of CEDROM-SNi, this news highlights the "commitment to quality" that has characterized NewsScan.com from the very beginning. He added that the inclusion of The New York Times "has placed the bar even higher. The editorial quality and influence of this important daily fit perfectly with our content selection criteria, and also benefit our clients, who witness first-hand our dedication to answering their ever-evolving information needs."

The New York Times is now available from CEDROM-SNi's online services and is updated daily, both for the NewsScan.com version intended for businesses and for that used by public libraries and educational institutions.
